The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s misconduct and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, having skipped school that afternoon and spent the day playing and drinking. Aunt Polly is satisfied, and Tom and his new arrival eat dinner in peace. Tom comes home at suppertime, and Aunt Polly asks him about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly reveals that she has been skipping school that afternoon and even considers running away. Tom's mouth hangs open, and when Aunt Polly is satisfied, Tom's boyish heart and soul show that his notions are still away from good and he has no interest in the things Aunt Polly is discussing. Tom has sworn to himself to disprove his aunt, and eventually chooses to do so, thinking, "I'll show her!"
