The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects nastily on Tom's misbehavior and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. Aunt Polly is still angry about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom she has been skipped school that afternoon and was observed playing with Tom. She shows him the letters that his pillow is still warm from, but she also tells Tom that Tom is not a bad boy, but that Tom's half-brother is.

Tom goes out of the house in a huff, and Aunt Polly is satisfied. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets Huckleberry Finn, a wanderer and expert liar. Tom and the new arrival soon become fast friends and eventually choose the newcomer as the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of medicine. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his chores.
